I have access to the R8 stuff, but not 6 or 9 (that I can tell at least...). Seeing that data would be helpful, but I'd mostly love to hear any preliminary info/trends from the EPA downstream data. UT has their own sample results back and are having a really difficult time teasing out any conclusions impacts or presence of the plume because of storms. They have really high TSS and high total metals, yet all their dissolved metals data is quite low...

This should not be so hard. Do you want to see the data? Please don't send it outside the agency.

Hi Randy –

Has R9 released any data or sampling locations yet from the San Juan River? We released CO data yesterday, but UT, BLM, and Natl Parks are hoping to get data from the San Juan River to make decisions about their rec users and were hoping they could see what you guys have put out.

Thanks!
